

Custom Live Edge River Table

Legs and Bases Options

At CVCF, we make our own custom metal legs and bases for every custom river tabletop. Our metal fabricators are always working on new and exciting designs! Customers can choose from our popular “elongated” and pedestal legs and bases or we can create a totally new specialty leg or base from your own design idea. In order to help you with your river table design decision, this page shows different types of legs and bases, different styles, and different metal styles and finishes for river table legs and bases. We only show those legs and bases that our river table designers feel will make every epoxy resin river table aesthetically stunning! We also will recommend those that we feel ensure a harmonious coupling of legs and your particular river tabletop. Each base is made custom for the size of your table.

Choose the Type of Leg or Base

Our table legs and bases come in 3 basic categories.

- Pedestal legs and bases for round or smaller tables with one central support for the table
- Specialty legs and bases are those that were custom ordered for just one client

Choose Your Metal Type, Finish & Color

Metal bases are ideal for custom river tables. Using custom designs fabricated in steel, we are able to create any metal style, color and finish through our special powder coating process. In addition, powder coating gives the legs a smoothness, hardness, and beauty that is unachievable with other coating methods. You can even choose your own custom color if you desire. Black or raw steel is standard. Other colors can be accommodated for additional fees.
